ATLANTIC BREEZE

Legend has it that the albariño grape was brought to Galicia by monks of the Cistercian Order in the 12th century. A thousand years later, sheltered by the prestigious DO Rías Baixas, our O Rosal vineyards continue to grow, influenced by the Atlantic climate. This provides a fresh wine with moderate alcohol content and good acidity.

Lemon-yellow in colour with green-hued reflections. Aromas of green apple and peach on a refreshing floral (orange blossom) and citrus (lemon) background. Hints of fresh herbs, pineapple and anise. In the mouth, it is fresh, flavourful, and fizzy with a long, persistent finish and the trademark saline touch of the variety.
